PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT

Sian Evans is 22. Until last year she lived a quiet life, playing the cello and studying music at university. Then one day she was given a challenge. She agreed to take part in a television programme called Faking it. She had just four weeks to learn completely new skills and become a DJ. At the end of her training she had to perform and compete against three professional DJs. She had to convince the judges that she wasn't a fake.

For a month Sian stayed with top DJ, Anne. When Sian first met her, she felt totally out of place. She said, "Anne is so glamorous. I was really quite scared at first." Almost as soon as she arrived, however, Sian started her training. She had lessons in "mixing" the music on Anne's record decks. She had voice training to make her sound right: "I learned to shout with attitude!" said Sian. To make her look right, she had new clothes, a new haircut and even dancing lessons. It wasn't only lessons, however. She also practised everything, but mostly the "mixing". She was on the decks for at least five hours a day.

At the end of the month Sian and three other professional DJs performed in front of the judges whose job was to pick the "fake". None of them picked Sian. In fact, they couldn't believe it when they were told. She was professional and confident, due mostly to enormous amounts of dedicated practice. Immediately after the programme she was offered a job as a professional DJ in a top club. So, perhaps it is true that "practice makes perfect".

A NEW LIFE

I used to work as a college lecturer in the north of England, running photography courses. It wasn't a bad job and I really liked my students, but I began to feel tired of doing the same thing every day. 2.1.

I'd always loved travelling, so one weekend I typed "international volunteering" into an internet search engine. At the top of the results page was the opportunity to go and stay on an island in the Indian Ocean, thousands of miles away, and help to protect the beaches and the sea life. 2.2. I had some diving experience, and the more I talked about it, the more I wanted to do it. So I contacted the organization. One week later they offered to send me to the island and I accepted. 2.3. After all, the volunteer job was only for two months during the summer holidays. I thought that after I'd finished, I would come home.

As soon as I got to the island, I was sure I'd done the right thing. My first dive was incredible. 2.4. I felt so lucky to be able to experience that every day.

In fact I loved it so much that I never came home! I've now been on the island for ten years and I have a permanent job. I'm working as a marine educator, teaching volunteers about the sea life and taking them snorkeling and diving. My desk is a picnic table 10 metres from the best beach on the island. Of course not everything about my new life is perfect. 2.5. However, I can't imagine going back to my old life.

THE THREAT TO THE ENVIRONMENT

Nowadays people are more aware that wildlife all over the world is in 4.1. Many species of animals are threatened, and could easily become 4.2. if we do not make an effort to 4.3. them. There are many reasons for this. In some cases animals are 4.4. for their fur or for other valuable parts of their bodies. Some birds, 4.5. as parrots, are caught alive and sold as pets. For many animals and birds the problem is that their habitat – the 4.6. where they live – is 4.7. More land is used for farms, for houses or industry, and there are fewer open spaces 4.8. there once were. Farmers use powerful chemicals to help them grow better crops but these chemicals pollute the environment and 4.9. wildlife. The most successful animals on earth – human beings – will soon be the only ones 4.10. unless we can solve this problem.
